Biofuels Digest's Top 100 People in Bioenergy Includes Advanced Biofuels USA Executive Director

Joanne Ivancic, President and Executive Director of Advanced Biofuels USA was voted one of "The top 100 People in Bioenergy" by subscribers to Biofuels Digest as announced October 11 by the online publication that bills itself as "the world's most widely-read biofuels daily."

According to Jim Lane, Biofuels Digest publisher, "Overall, the poll attracted more than 15,000 votes over the two-week voting period from Digest readers, and more than 400 individuals received votes, including more than 150 write in candidates." Profiles of winners will be published throughout the week of October 11, 2010 at www.BiofuelsDigest.com.

"I knew that the organization was earning an international reputation for quality in achieving our mission of promoting the understanding, development and use of advanced biofuels. I sincerely value this acclaim and recognition from a group of people who represent a wide range of interests, involvement and achievement in biofuels," explained Ivancic. "This is an extraordinary salute to the work of the talented, knowledgeable volunteers around the US who put thousands of hours into the work of Advanced Biofuels USA."

Advanced Biofuels USA is a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization. Its purpose is to promote public understanding, acceptance, and use of advanced biofuels; to promote research, development and improvement of production, marketing and delivery of advanced biofuels; and to improve advanced biofuels crops and products.
