Latest on Federal Regulation

Year-round E15, small refinery exemptions and RINs adjustment got lots of attention this month. And, finally, answers to the FOIA request from Boyden Gray's firm about EPA's collusion with Big Oil on ethanol blend tests. Read #Gasolinegate for details.

Comments on the SAFE/CAFE proposed regulations are in, including comments on high octane/high ethanol blends for increased mileage and decreased emissions and continuing the conversation on interaction of California LCFS/RFS/SAFE/CAA/GHG.

And, although we see a more sophisticated understanding of biofuels in many places, there's also renewed fanning of the old embers of food vs. fuel, land use issues. Although finally, we see some recognition of land use issues related to conversion for urban sprawl being brought into the picture.

Joanne: If you read some of these articles and say to yourself, "That's Just Wrong!" then you understand the need for biofuels education. We don't write the stuff in this newsletter. We just report it. Biofuels is not an easy topic to understand.

Reporters (and folks who read their articles and make purchasing and investing decisions based on them) may not have much background in renewable energy or transportation fuels and engines, let alone the intricacies and nuances of the places where the rubber of policy meets the road of legislation, regulations and litigation. Heck, even the people working on those laws and regulations could use a refresher.

We are doing something about that every day.
